EX-SENATOR NYE.

Ex-Senator Nye, of Nevada, is poor and friendless, and is now the inmate of an Insine Asylum. The Philadelphia Times thus tells the story of his career:

"In 1860 the name of James W. Nye became a household word. His speeches in the memorable campaign that gave the first national victory to the Republicans, attracted the attention of the country, and were highly appreciated by Mr. Lincoln, who appointed Mr. Nye to the Governorship of the then new Territory or Nevada, previously known as the Washoe gold region. Genial, kind and generous to a fault, Governor Nye was soon a favorite with the pioneers who were founding new empires, and in a few years he came to the National Capital with the baptism of the new born State, to take his seat as Senator. his seat as Senator.

In the heat of the desperate political battles which were fought during the decade following 1860. Governor Nya was ever foremost in the conflict and his thrilling eloquence and infi-nite jest, quickened Senators and en-thused the masses from the hustings. But time with its swift mutations, brought a different control to his little State, and, as age dimmed his eye and bowed his once erect form, power, place and friends deserted him, and sorrows came—Inot single spies, but in buttalions. There was no ap-plandits to welcome him to his moun-tain home. Other alters had been erected, and his worshipers had wan-dayed in their devotion. The dered in their devotion. The man of gold had climbed into his place, and his work was done. The painful his work was done. The painful story of his mental aberration first came out as he strayed from a railroad train in Virginia, and was found persea of sale

FATAL .- Edward Tompkins, who was hart in Carson city, last Monday in a saloon fight, in which he was struck on the head with a bottle of eider, died from inflamation of the brain, caused by the wound, on Thursday. He had been connected with the V. & T. Railroad for some time and was well known. The Trabune adds: This is a sad termination of a young man's life, and should be a warning to all young men. Before Tompkins came to Nevada he was a sober, steady boy, and respected by all. Here he felt in with bad company and learned to drink, and it was while under the influence of liquor that he got into the row in which he received his death wound. Deceased leaves a brother and many friends to mourn his untimely death. He was a native of Michigan aged 22

CIRCUS SWINDLEN ARRESTED.—The Virginia Enterprise gives this state-Nevada State Sournal. ment of alleged feets:

About the middle of last week a man named Delano, who has been known through these parts in years O'Brien's three. It went through the country on a double-headed train of sixty-three cars, all painted red, with "O'Brien's Circus" painted on each, and as it would along the track it looked like a great livid moreter. it looked like a great, livid monater. He himself had come on the cars in advance, and had at Beno a checkerboard four-in-hand—two whites and two blacks, each team off matched. The bill-posters had another four-in-hapd, and would be on in a day or two. —The circus would be here Jnes 4th, etc. He had a check signed by Chamberlain, of the Depot Hotel, Reno, for $250, which he exhibited and Friday night after the hibited, and Friday night, after the money was taken at the door of the Opera House, he wanted Mr. Piper to cash it. Failing in that, he winted to borrow $10. This is a specimen of his doings here in Virginia. men of his doings here in Virginia. He ran bills, borrowed money, hired teams, and Saturday morning turned up missing. He is a hilk of the first water. In the first place, O'Brien's name is not flying from the streamer of any circus at all this year, as will be seen by referring to the Current of the Curr he seen by referring to the Clipper list of shows, proprietors, agents, etc. It is believed, however, that he is not alone in his transactions. If so, he registers under different names at different places; besides, there are two names on the register at Reno. The name at the International here is Carlton, and Howe & Cushings is the circus. It is thought best to mention this fact, so that hotelkeeners, newspaper men, and the public generally, may be on their guard. There are but two circuses on the coast—Montgomery Queen's and Jackley's. After running his rice here, Mr. Delano di-appeared very suildenly. Men becau to arouse themselves to the fact that they had been swindled. Steps were immediately taken and the gentleman was arrested at Carson, from which place he will be returned to this city by the morning train. It will he well for the public to be on their guard against his conartner in iniquity, if Menagerie will exhibit at Reno Fri- he bas one. Here the gentleman was quite too loud for an agent.
